Submitted by Craig Cook

Dillan Scott is a deserving selection for our 2025–2026 Outstanding Student of the Year in Black Studies. Along with his strong academic performance, he consistently demonstrates thoughtful critical thinking and deep reflection during class discussions, enriching the learning experience for others. Dillan engages meaningfully with course material and brings insightful perspectives that show both intellectual growth and curiosity. As an active member of UMOJA, he has further developed his leadership and sense of community. I have had the pleasure of witnessing his growth through his participation in various events and conferences, where he continues to represent the values of scholarship, engagement, and cultural awareness.
